LOCAL AREA

Ealing's the complete package. Full of green parks and wide open spaces, yet part of London. A town with its own clear identity, that makes life easy 9-5 and all the hours around it.

There's Ealing Studios, with its supporting cast of local film, television and production companies. New talent at the University of West London around the corner. A Nuffield Health gym, Picturehouse Cinema and eclectic mix of energetic bars and historic pubs. And be sure to block out the dates for Ealing's famous Beer and Jazz Festivals.

Charm and personality

Thoughtfully crafted spaces

54 The Broadway's reception provides a subtly grand arrival experience. The double height space is warm, inviting and reflects British Land's insistence on a 'world class welcome'.

The understatedly impressive ambience extends across the three office floors, each featuring huge south-facing windows that flood interiors with natural light. Add the basement's bike racks and luxurious showers, toilets and changing areas, and you have a place of work that makes it easy to work - brilliantly.

Strikingly flexible courtyard

The rear courtyard's landscaped design makes it the ideal location for breakout working, informal catch ups, fresh air lunches and after-work events.

The space has been completely reimagined. Thanks to the large retractable awnings, you can enjoy the tasteful decking, lush plantings and wooden façades whatever the weather. And there's enough seating for everyone to be comfortable.

Genuinely powerful wellbeing

54 The Broadway is perfectly placed to improve wellbeing as well as business performance. Walk past Walpole Park over the road – and there’s a further 100 acres of green space within 10 minutes’ walk. For a more active escape, it’s also easy to pop into one of Ealing’s many gyms, from F45, Nuffield Health and Eden Fitness, to Gymbox and The Gym Group. There are also 15 courts at Ealing Lawn Tennis Club nearby, and local 5-a-side football pitches.
